

BRIDGE QUESTION HOLDS SWAY AT MEETING OF SUPERVISORS

San Francisco Supervisors Present At Redwood Session, Pledge Good Faith of Big City

The question of a bay bridge was again brought to the fore at the regular meeting of the San Mateo board of Supervisors last Monday, first by a co-operation with the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce anxious to construct a bridge across the bay at Coyote Point, of his views in the matter, and later by the arrival of four of the supervisors of the San Francisco board, who told of San Francisco's desire to have the bridge built and pledged the good faith of their city in the project.

Col. Webb, who was introduced to the board by J. J. McGrath of the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce, told the board that the financing of this project would be borne by eastern capital. Webb, who represents the Keystone State Construction Company of Philadelphia, and the Hanzel Construction Company of New York, told the board that if he could receive the necessary franchise he would form a company, incorporated under the laws of California, to be known as the Webb, Brown, Keystone Construction Company, which he assured the board could give bonds to the amount of ten million if the board required. When asked by Supervisor Hickey when the bridge would be built if the franchise were granted, Webb replied that he expected to start work within ninety days after the necessary franchise was granted, but to allow for unforeseen difficulties in getting started he would set the time at six months. "The board could," he said, "make reasonable limitations in the franchise. In regard to the time required."

Supervisor MacLean asked whether the approaches would be built by the same company or whether the county would have this to do. "The company," answered Webb, "would like to build the necessary approaches and make the bridge a finished job, but that can be left to the county to decide."

Just after Col. Webb had finished his story of the Coyote Point bridge, four of the supervisors of San Francisco appeared before the board to represent their city in the question of the Dumbarton bridge. These were Supervisor Welsh of the East-side-highway commission, and Supervisors McGregor, McClaren and Ross of the Finance committee.

Supervisor Welsh addressed the board on San Francisco's willingness to put money into the Dumbarton bridge proposition. San Francisco will spend $225,000 for the plans and specifications if that amount is necessary. McClaren of the Finance committee vehemently denied the rumor that San Francisco had made a resolution to support the bridge and then had made provision to finance her part of the proposed project. The city engineer had already been authorized to spend $50,000 said McClaren, in preliminary work down the peninsula in regard to the East side highway and the Dumbarton bridge.

A report drawn up by the three members of the East side Highway board was presented to the board and adopted by them. This report laid out the approximate route of the proposed highway. This route was divided into six sections in the report of the committee, about as follows:

San Carlos Items

Mrs. E. E. Uch left last Saturday for a week's visit with her daughter at Vallejo.

G. H. Durel of the C. H. Durel Importing and Exporting Co., of San Francisco, has returned from a three weeks' business trip into old Mexico.

Ward S. Jackson, assistant manager for the American Insurance Company, was in San Carlos last Wednesday for the purpose of establishing a local agency for his company here.

Joe J. Johnson is back with his chickens after a two weeks' visit at the home of his son, Philo S. Johnson, the popular S. P. agent at Napa.

J. M. Powers has just written from Hollywood that he and his little daughter, Julia, whom every one in San Carlos were so fond of, had gotten nicely settled in their new quarters in the movie town, and that he was very busy with his work in connection with the Atlas Tourist Agency.

Chas. E. Wilson and wife of Idaho Falls are guests at the home of Mrs. C. H. Diekmann, Mrs. Wilson's sister. Mr. Wilson has only recently sold out his business at Idaho Falls, Idaho, where he has been engaged in the Commission business for the past twenty years. The Wilsons are now on their way to Los Angeles, where Mr. Wilson will engage in the same business in the southern city.

Mrs. McLeish of Burlingame who is the San Mateo County representative in the coming Red Cross drive, was in San Carlos last Monday to look after the preliminary work here and for the purpose of appointing a local assistant. Mrs. McLeish was fortunate in interesting Mrs. Anita Kunze, our popular primary teacher, and in securing her as the San Carlos representative. Mrs. Kunze is extremely popular, and it will be pretty hard to refuse to give up the small amount of $1.00 to this estimable lady, to be devoted to so worthy a cause. It is to be expected that every one will endeavor to make the work as easy as possible for Mrs. Kunze.

After a six weeks' absence in the city of angels looking after his work as deputy insurance commissioner, A. J. Buneman with his family, are now back at their home at 536 Elm street. The Bunemans had an enjoyable sojourn in the southern city, but are very glad to get back to their cozy bungalow in the garden of eden.

Malcolm J. Hoon, who was enjoying his vacation as paying teller of the Commercial Bank of Paso Robles, stopped over here with his family to visit his old friend, Jack Cowgill. Before he discovered that he could do much better as a stock holder, and in a position with local institutions, Hoon was for a good many years station agent for the Southern Pacific at San Lucas, California. During Cowgill's administration as general chairman of the Order of Rail Road Telegraphers, over the entire Southern Pacific system, from Portland and Ogden to New Orleans, Hoon was one of the most active boosters of the union and its principles.

O. B. Stoner of the San Mateo Feed and Fuel Company when in town a few days ago arranged for unloading facilities, advised that his company had the contract to deliver and distribute 125 cars of crushed rock from the Logan quarries in the street improvement at San Carlos, under the supervision of Geo. H. Kneese. Unfortunately the heavy rains came just after the streets were graded, and the first cars of rock had begun to arrive, and it will now probably be several days before the ground will be in condition for the heavy trucks in distributing the rock.

The mean time every one who wants to use these freshly graded streets, with truck, auto, or "tin-lizzy" will be saying nice things about Geo. Kneese, the Mercantile Trust Co. and every one else connected with this fine improvement, in the making.

Jack Cowgill and family, in company with Miss Maury, of Medford, Oregon, and Vain Maury of San Francisco, sister and nephew of Mrs. Cowgill, motored to Santa Cruz last Sunday for lunch at the home of Mrs. S. J. Boone, Mr. Cowgill's sister.

The County Social Service Commission addressed a communication to the board recommending that relief be accorded several persons in need in the county.

A report was received from the Superintendent of the Juvenile home asking for an increase of $50 per month in salary. This communication was referred to Judge Buck for a recommendation in the matter.

REDMEN FAVOR PLAYGROUND

Another endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce plan of making a municipal playground of the property on the corner of Broadway and the highway was received by Secretary Smith last week when the following communication was sent to him:

From Metamora Tribe, No. 24, Imp'd Order of Redmen.

"Your communication to Metamora Tribe No. 24, Improved Order of Redmen, Redwood City, was received at last regular meeting, and by motion put and carried the action of the Chamber of Commerce was heartily endorsed towards acquiring the property known as the baseball grounds as a Municipal Playgrounds, and we assure you the support of the members of the Tribe, and will assist in every way possible to bring a victorious ending."

If some of the imitation saints we know manage to get into heaven we hope they have to wear plaster-of-paris crowns.

DUMBARTON BRIDGE AND HIGHWAY

"At an enthusiastic meeting of the Bridge-the-Bay Association of Alameda county held at Hotel Belvoir, Niles a week ago, delegates from Newark, Niles, Pleasanton, Warm Springs, Sanol, Centerville and Hayward were present. President Frank Towne and Manager R. H. K. Smith of the local Chamber of Commerce with Supervisor John MacBain of San Mateo county were present. F. V. Jones, President of the Bridge-the-Bay Association presided. After a splendid banquet was disposed of, R. H. K. Smith called on to open the batteries in favor of the Dumbarton bridge. In an impassioned speech, Mr. Smith wound up his remarks by using Fred Drake's famous caption of, 'Let's stop kidding ourselves and get to work.' Mr. Lee, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Hayward, then tried a verbal barrage of two hours' duration to try and cloud the issue of Dumbarton in favor of Little Coyote Point. Mr. Lee endeavored to show that Coyote Point was 5 1/2 miles shorter to Hayward than via Redwood City and Dumbarton and thereby saved 44 cents to the travelling public at 8 cents per mile. Mr. Smith exploded this theory by stating that the tolls over Coyote Point bridge would more than offset this alleged saving as Dumbarton would be a free bridge. F. K. Towne showed some keen analytical figures that were convincing and made his slogan, 'Dumbarton $1,500,000 vs. Little Coyote Point about $7,000,000. Supervisor John MacBain aroused great applause in his speech in which he prophesied that old as he was, he hoped to be one of the first to drive over Dumbarton bridge in the near future. The meeting wound up by voting 5 organizations in favor of Dumbarton, 1 opposed, and 1 in favor, but preferred submitting the matter to his organization."

Southern Alameda county is now definitely pledged to the Dumbarton bridge project.

BONZAGNI LODGE BURNED

Last Monday morning witnessed the destruction by fire of one of the most famous mountain resorts of the county, when Bonzagni's Forest Lodge at La Honda was consumed in a fire of unknown origin. The lodge which was known throughout the state was built some years ago by Alex. Bonzagni on the site of the old Kieffer hotel, to which it was a successor and which was one of the oldest road-houses in the county.

The proprietor and some of the employees of the resort were asleep in an adjoining building when the fire started and escaped safely before the fire spread. The main building, however, was destroyed before the flames were discovered.

FRANK ROACH THANKS VOTERS

I wish to express my gratitude to the voters of San Mateo county for the magnificent support accorded to me in the election. I have no regrets as I have the satisfaction of knowing that my candidacy was fair and honorable. To my loyal friends words cannot express my feelings for their arduous work in my behalf. To my opponent, Mr. Lampkin, I extend my heartfelt wishes for a successful administration of the sheriff's office. If I can in any way co-operate with him to make his term of office an efficient one, I will gladly do so.

Sincerely,
FRANK ROACH

ELECTION RESULTS IN UNQUALIFIED VICTORY FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY

California Voters Rally to the Support of the G. O. P. and Accord Big Majority to Party Men

Despite the efforts of those who would have clouded the issues in the late campaign, the voice of the people is again triumphant and as section after section is heard from the fact becomes clearer that the people cannot be deceived by mere talk and stage play. All the republican candidates in this county received the support that they justly merited. The long list of amendments has made the counting of the votes a long and tiresome operation and it is not all over yet.

Friend Richardson was given a very substantial testimony of the high esteem in which he is held in this county, the votes so far counted give him 5,813 to his opponent 4,687, a lead of 379. The vote polled by Hiram Johnson, the republican candidate for U. S. Senator was a landslide he receiving 7,919 to Pearson's 2,237.

In the county offices the only contest which attracted general notice was that of sheriff, which was won by H. W. Lampkin over a close and hard fight. For a long time it was doubtful who would be the successful contestant in the sheriff fight but as the returns from the northern end of the county were received Lampkin's majority increased until when all the votes were in he led his opponent, Frank Roach, by 368 votes, the vote cast being: Lampkin, 6,219; Roach, 5,851.

In the second township, Mrs. Brown was successful in her contest for re-election to the office of Supervisor which she has filled so efficiently the last three years. Mrs. Brown's vote was 2,433 against Fowler's 2,129.

Wm. Bird of Burlingame was selected by the people to fill the office of Justice of the Peace for the next term. Bird was successful in a three cornered fight, having against him, Morris and Kertell, who polled 1351 and 1315 votes respectively. Bird's vote was 1365.

Dr. Thompson in the fifth township received 257 votes while Carl Coburn who ran on a "write in" campaign got 123 votes. In the same township, Herman Frey ran on a "write in" campaign but was defeated by Walter Moore. The vote was 111 to 255.

Good support was accorded the local candidates for associate Justice of the Supreme Court. These were Judges Kerrigan and Shurtliff, who received 5,533 and 5,209 respectively. The other candidates for this office were Judge Sewell, who was given 4,869 and Judge Sloan who received 2,231 votes.

Reports from the amendments are not yet complete but from present indications the Wright Act was defeated in this county by a large majority, the vote being 3,061 for and 5,813 against.

Another republican victory in the election was that of Ray L. Riley who was running for State Comptroller. Riley's vote was 7,169 to 2,419 of his opponent, Miles Hammond.

PIONEER ANSWERS CALL MEETS AT SAN MATEO

About a score of young people from Redwood City attended the convention of the Santa Clara district of the Christian Endeavor, held in the Masonic temple in San Mateo, last Friday, Saturday and Sunday. A large and enthusiastic attendance made the convention an unequalled success. On Friday evening the speaker of the evening was Rev. O. P. Bell of Long Beach who gave an inspiring address, "Never Say, 'No' to God in Your Daily Life."

The speaker on Saturday evening was Rev. Howard McConnell of San Jose, who addressed the young people on, "Never Say, 'No' to God in Christ's Work."

On the third evening the address, "Never Say, 'No' to God When He Calls," was delivered by Rev. Otis D. Ironmonger. These addresses were all aimed to show the young Christian the right attitude to take in his daily life. "Winning Souls for Jesus" was the key note of this meeting and the inspiring and talented addresses will leave a lasting impression on all who were so fortunate as to attend.

WEDDED AT SALINAS

Miss Marie Gunther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gunther of this city, a student at the State Teachers College, San Jose, and William Boos also of this city, surprised their many friends last week by going to Salinas, where they were united in marriage by the Rev. M. Bowers, pastor of the Salinas Methodist church. They then returned home expecting to tell their friends at a later date. The wedding notice from Salinas was published in a San Jose paper and so the event became known.

Mrs. Boos is a very charming young woman. She is a graduate of Sequoia Union High School and will be graduated from Teachers College in June. She will continue her studies until that time. Mr. Boos has resided in Redwood City practically all of his life, and is a fine young man. He has followed the automobile business for some time and until lately was proprietor of a garage near Five Points. The young couple will make their home in Redwood City.

M. J. Bettencourt, cashier of the Bank of Half Moon Bay and John Souza, well known coast side capitalist, were local visitors this week.

Mrs. Robert Silva was here from Bellvale Wednesday visiting Redwood City friends.

Governor-elect Friend W. Richardson

The splendid victory of Friend W. Richardson for governor was looked forward to by his supporters throughout the state. The clammy heaped upon him by certain newspapers only made his friends work all the harder with the result that his majority will reach the enormous proportions of over 200,000. Mr. Richardson may well feel proud of the big victory. His administration will be efficient, economical and honest.

SOME IMPRESSIONS

Last Tuesday night the Pacific Gas and Electric Company entertained a large portion of the residents of this neighborhood to a fine show and a demonstration of static electricity. In addition to that they showed by beautiful illustrations the possibilities and possibilities of this big service corporation.

We had expected the company would talk about the proposed Water Power Act upon which we voted Tuesday. They said nothing about that act however, and gave only a fine class show and an interesting and instructive lecture.

We think their idea was fine and we believe that if more of the public service corporations should take people into their confidence and lay their cards before them on the table there would not be so much hard feeling between the consumers and those that serve them.

Last Wednesday at the University of California was a big day. At eleven thirty in the morning 7000 students of the world's biggest institution of learning assembled in front of the president's office and requested him to withdraw his resignation, and also requested the Board of Regents, who were meeting, to ask the president to reconsider his resignation.

This was a very significant gathering and probably meant more to President Barrows than has any other event of his life. President Barrows is a big man. He is a native Californian and an alumnus of the U. C. He has been with the University for many years with the exception of the time he spent commanding the United States forces in Siberia during the late war. The meeting demonstrates that those who are in a position to know feel that he has made good on the job. He says that the work is too great. We can well see that he is right. The University of California has more students enrolled than has any other college in the world. There is not enough room for all of them. The president not only has to take care of the educational policy of the institution but he also has to care for its business affairs and its social relations. He should be given sufficient support and assistance so that the educational policy alone would be his affair. He should be given buildings enough to take care of his 11,000 students. We hope President Barrows will reconsider his resignation and continue as president.

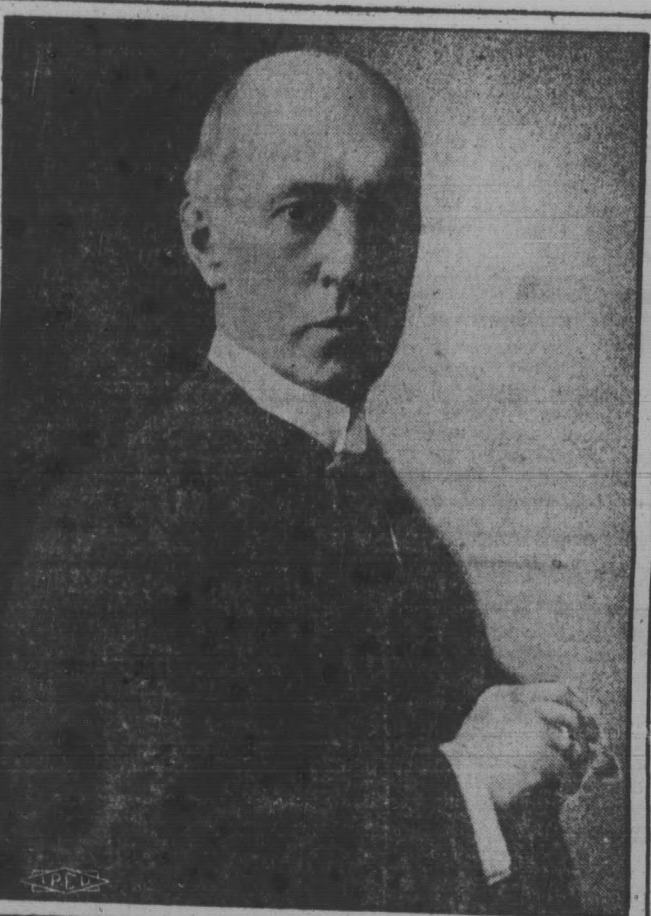

During the week a prisoner in the Federal Court asked, because of his health, that he should be confined during the six months that he must remain in prison, in a clean, sanitary, healthy jail. The condemned man is a veteran of the late war, and saw 21 months service on the other side. In consideration of that fact, the judge agreed that he should be sent to a clean, healthy jail. After some search, the San Mateo County Jail at Redwood City was selected. This is certainly a compliment to the governing authorities of this country. If we have to have jails, they should be kept clean and wholesome. We are glad that we are becoming known for good things even if they are jails.

But we have everything that should attract in this section of California. We notice with much pleasure that the California State Highway Commission has let the contract for the second unit of the Skyline boulevard. This section of the road will run from the Sneath ranch, or Jersey farm, to the Halfmoon Bay road. The cost of this unit will be $234,814.00. Not only is it fine to have all of this work going on in the county, but this piece of road when completed will serve another object for the motorists of San Francisco. There are too many machines on the State highway now and this

The colossal vote of Senator Hiram W. Johnson at the election for senator in California. His majority will be in the neighborhood of 400,000. Senator Johnson feels the great honor done him by the unity of voting for the great statesman and they showed their appreciation of his splendid service to the state in giving him one of the largest

Samuel M. Shortridge

The sweeping victory of the republican party in California on Tuesday last is very gratifying to the country and voted for that party's leaders. No little credit is due for this success to the able efforts of Senator Shortridge, who on this. Mr. Shortridge spoke two and a half times at San Francisco last month, plunged into the campaign, speaking in every section, so did splendid work for the republic and telling them of the great northern part of the state. The achievements being accomplished by the administration at Washington, their untiring efforts in the recent His eloquent words found many campaign.

Four years ago today was the most wildly hilarious day ever celebrated in the United States. Every citizen was well high crazy with joy because the war had been won. Since then we have had peace and prosperity. We drove the war lord from his throne and boasted that we had made the world safe for Democracy. Sometimes we wonder!

second artery will help to take care of the congestion as many drivers will in the future turn off at San Mateo or Belmont and run up the mountain to the more scenic route along the coast of the hills and so give more room for those who continue along the El Camino.

There is another reason why the Skyline will benefit San Mateo county and that is because it will open up a new section that has been practically a closed book to most of our people. The way it will travel is in most beautiful but hitherto it has been inaccessible, now people will see it. Furthermore, San Mateo county will not have to bear all of the expense of construction which is a considerable item.

About everybody wants shorter hours and more pay, but he doubts that the other fellow deserves them.

A reading of history reveals that ignorance is about as often in control of affairs as intelligence.

City farmers are now harvesting next year's crops.

"Be sure you are right" and then be unpopular.

FLEETING GREATNESS

Five years ago today Kaiser Wilhelm was one of the greatest figures in the seething arena of a great world war. Today he is an exile and his marriage to a young woman causes just a little comment. Probably in four years, if he lives that long, he will be a paralytic in a wheel chair.

Four years ago Woodrow Wilson was one of the greatest figures of the world. Today, he is a man broken on in health and only excites pity when he appears in public.

Three years ago Clemenceau was one of the most striking one of the most outstanding figures of the world. Today we do not ever hear of him.

Two years ago Lloyd George was the dominant figure in world power. His away has gone. He may come back. But if he does what will it all avail? "The Paths of Glory, lead but to the Grave."

We who have our comfortable homes and plenty to eat should thank God every day of our lives that we are just common-place folks.

After a man learns that there never will be a time when everything about his automobile is just right, he begins to take pleasure in wondering what the trouble is.

Don't imagine you are complimenting a woman friend by saying, "You used to be the prettiest girl in the school."

The smaller the mind, the bigger its prejudices.

THE ELECTION

Its all over now and the will of the people has been registered. We had hoped for a different result in state judicial circles, but we are willing to abide by the majority decision.

Now that it is all over we should singly and collectively put all thoughts of dissatisfaction behind us and boost for our town, our county and our state. We should each one of us obey the laws, and respect the authority of our government and above all be good loyal Americans.

VOTING

The election is over. It has demonstrated that about 70 per cent of the people who registered voted enough about the matter to vote. Any man or woman who was registered and was within 30 miles of his or her voting place and was physically able to go to the polls, and who didn't should be deprived of the right to vote for four years. There should be some penalty attached to slighting the most important function of citizenship.

CARD OF THANKS

I express to the citizens and voters of San Mateo County my heartfelt gratitude.

As your sheriff, it shall be my ambition and steadfast purpose to give you an up-to-date, economical and business-like administration. I shall seek to have the Sheriff's office of San Mateo County rank among the first and most efficient of the state. It shall be my purpose that the office shall at all times, be at your service.

H. W. JAMPKIN

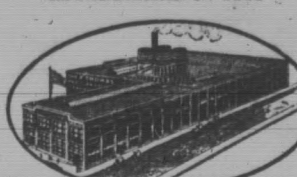

Edgar H. Batchelder of Millbrae and Miss May Murphy of San Francisco, were united in marriage in San Francisco Monday. Mr. Batchelder is a graduate of the San Mateo High School and for a time attended Stanford. He is the son of E. B. Batchelder, who has for many years been employed by the Spring Valley Water Company here and at Millbrae. The young man spent his younger days at Woodside and has many friends here who wish him much happiness in his married life.

Junior Red Cross Praised for Work Influencing Peace

The advancing standard of the Junior American Red Cross made two outstanding gains during the last year—one in the field of domestic activity, which is rapidly lifting up the schools, with the Junior program, the other a gain of a dozen countries in Europe pledged to organize Juniors on the lines of the American organization. For this accomplishment the American Juniors earned the hearty endorsement of the League of Red Cross Societies for its "creation of an international spirit of human solidarity among young people with a view to preparation of a new civilization for peace."

Permanently Removing Spots by the F. Thomas Process

If spots come back after your clothes have been to the cleaners, cleaned by the "F. Thomas Process."

Spots that appear in clothing caused by grease, food stains, etc., quickly collect dust and dirt. They can be permanently removed by the "F. Thomas Process" without injury to the fabric.

The "F. Thomas Process" is a highly developed, scientific method of cleaning by which we obtain the perfect work for which this establishment is noted.

The cheap, "just as good" cleaner either washes your clothes in dirty gasoline, or soaks his gasoline with strong sulphuric acid. It is dangerous to have your clothes cleaned in "acid" gasoline. It is economy in the long run to have your clothes cleaned.

Every drop of cleaning fluid that we use is carefully re-distilled in our plant. Special equipment that we have installed to properly handle this work represents an investment of thousands of dollars.

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

The successful hunter of wild water fowl must make a constant study of weather conditions during the winter months when the wild birds of the marshland are migrating from their summer homes and nesting localities for a more congenial climate and above all the food which is needed to sustain life. Never let your mind become permeated with the false idea that a mallard, sprig, widgeon, or any variety of the feathered tribe fly southward during the fall and winter months just for the sake of exercising those fast vibrating wings with which nature has provided them. Far from it. There is a very good and sound reason for that long journey southward, just as there is for the flight northward again in the spring.

The summer home of the wary web-foot, where their breeding takes place, is abundantly supplied with nutritious food, to an extent that is almost inexhaustible and as the principal ambition of a wild duck seems to be to eat, they would gladly remain where they could find to their hearts content and succumb at an early age to the ravages of gout, as does the gormand of the human family. The icy hand of winter, however, grips the northland, the lakes and rivers, with their tributaries and puddling ponds freeze over and the succulent roots and bulbs and grasses are tightly locked up beneath the surface of the glistening ice until the hands of spring unlock the frozen water ways and invite the birds back again to their summer haunts.

That is why I desire to impress upon the readers of these articles the absolute necessity to at all times make a study of weather conditions if you love wild duck shooting and wish to be successful. Of course, I do not expect you to become a second Fatherland of San Jose, but take it from me it will do you no harm to read the prognostications, which are made each month and thirty days in advance. Keep your eye on the newspaper dispatches from Oregon, Washington and Alaskan points. When heavy storms and freezing weather are reported from these localities, look well to your duck blinds around the bay here. Don't wait a week either to do so. A wild duck moves swiftly and when he starts on that southern flight remember he is climbing along at the rate of one hundred miles per hour, and even moves while you are enjoying your beauty sleep in a warm bed. Darkness does not stop that uninterrupted flight, as the fast flying birds rush on to their destination with an accuracy only equaled by the mariner's compass. There have been times when I have seen the bay waters absolutely barren of wild water fowl. A cold snap would come hurtling out of the far north and 24 hours after its first icy breath was felt here the bay and marshes would be teeming with new birds, so tired from their arduous flight that they could be killed by a mere novice in the game of wild duck shooting.

If I am not mistaken in my judgment there is something doing just now in the far north and I would not be surprised at any time to read that the ice king is gripping our northern possessions. On October 21st, while sculling in the bay, I was startled by a flock of eight canvasbacks coming toward me low down across the water. It is too early for "cans" and I could not believe my eyes as the swiftly flying birds approached, but I have seen the majestic futter of such wings too often in the years gone by to be mistaken and just as they came abreast I reached for my number twelve and doubled a beautiful drake and female tumbling downward, the former dead and the latter with a broken wing. Take my advice and when you shoot a cripple "can" over be sure to get close enough to him to kill. I have been fooled before by this grand bird and I was again. I shot the old bird dove and never came to the surface. The bay was smooth and I could easily have seen the slightest ripple from its protruding bill, but it did what many others have been known to do before, dive and grab hold of some object on the bottom and hang on until they drown. That is an old trick of the "can," blue-bill and sprig. I noticed also that day there were a large number of coots and quite a sprinkling of the little waterfowl or ruddy ducks in the bay. It is early for both these species. On October 23rd while returning from Alvarado with Geo. Genocchio and Joe Simmons, we ran into a flock of fourteen canvasbacks, so I am strong in the belief that the intense cold of an early winter has already taken possession of the far north.

It was just this close attention to weather conditions and its effect upon the wild birds that netted Ben Chew and myself nearly one hundred ducks some years ago. In fact, I secured the largest bag sculling that I ever acquired. We had met casually down on Main street one evening and, of course, our conversation turned at once to ducks.

"Been out lately," Ben asked. "Yes, day before yesterday," I replied, "but there was nothing doing and I don't know when I will go again."

"Have you seen the morning paper," Ben continued. "No, I have not," I answered him. "Big storm on in the north," he said, "wait until I get the paper," and he darted into his mother's home and came back with the glad news.

Sure enough there was something doing. Vancouver, Tacoma, Seattle, Portland and farther points north reported the worst storm in years with freezing weather and shipping tied up in all the harbors. It was not good news for the hardy sailors who go down to the deep in ships, but you know "tis said that 'tis an ill wind that blows nobody good." The marshes here had been practically tenantless, but the storm had been raging northward for two days. Our thought ran in the same grove. I had been out only two days before and found so few ducks that it was energy thrown away to scull the almost empty sloughs.

Now, however, a ray of hope gleamed on the horizon of our happiness. My duck boat had been left down at the old first fence. Ben suggested that we take a walk down through the field and make an inspection of First slough. If any new birds had arrived from the north we were bound to find them in this favorite creek which was never known to fall as a producer if birds were here. Hastily gathering up a few sandwiches and apples, we were off on our prospecting trip. The atmosphere was cold and clear and objects could be seen at a considerable distance. We had not brought a gun with us as we did not wish to disturb what birds might be in the creek and we had already decided if the new birds had arrived, as we felt they surely had, we would both go sculling the next day.

When we arrived at the fence we met Fred Stalter coming in from the marsh on his way home. He had 14 or 15 birds, which I considered a good mess, in view of the few I had seen but two days before.

"What the devil are you fellows doing down here without a gun," said Fred. "There are lots of birds moving today and they seem like strangers, for as soon as they strike the creeks, they go right to sleep."

"Good news," answered Ben, "that is just what we walked down to find out; there is a big storm on in the north and we were expecting those birds."

It could readily be seen that the ducks Fred had killed were new arrivals and after a brief chat he left him and went out to see if my boat was all right. While I was busy cleaning her out preparatory for the next day's hunt, Ben was carefully scanning the sky and toward the bay and every once in a while he would call my attention to a flock flying south or coming in to the marshes evidently looking for a location.

Ben had his boat tied up at Hanson and Co.'s wharf, so it was agreed that he would hunt the north marsh the next day while I should go south. Late in the afternoon we were to meet up First slough, tie our boats up at the head of the creek and walk home together. That is part of the arrangement which I afterwards had cause to regret, for it would have been much easier to have reached home through the creeks, than carry the large bundle of ducks which I secured that day, up through the marsh and stretches of brown tar weeds until George Ekerenkotter and Walter Welch came to my assistance and gave me a lift on my home ward journey.

Ben and I went home in high spirits for the morrow we both knew would bring us some grand sport, which the ice king of the far north had unknowingly provided for us, and that our hopes and conclusions were fully realized you will be made aware of in the succeeding article appearing in this paper.

had not seen it. From one tree to the next without a stop. Over and over again you can see them hurt themselves clear out into the air from the top of a high tree and clearing the out-most branches of the tree they leave, they land in the top of a tree lower down with a crash and catch a limb and run on. I am sure I have seen them jump in this way for 50 or 60 feet. They also have a favorite habit of leaping behind a croch of a tree and pecking over at the "human beings" below. Just their heads show up over the croch. They are certainly interesting to watch. I didn't have my gun along or I might have gotten one for the skin. Any two by four gent who takes 'those for his ancestors can help himself. They don't look like they would be coming down out of their 250 feet perches to build a fire and live in a house and hoe a garden very soon. One thing they did which I would not have expected — when they run away frightened the little ones trail behind and keep up as best they can. The old ones are off and away ahead and the others ranging in all sizes except the very tiny ones (which seem to hang on to their mother) have to shift for themselves.

MENLO PARK NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Lowery have leased the Cuyler Lee residence on Pierce street, San Francisco, for five months during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Lee and their daughters, Miss Rosamonde and Miss Margaret Lee, who will go south for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Lowery and Miss Edna Taylor have closed their home in Menlo Park.

Professor Dennis, principal of the William Warren School, has gone to New York to secure new teachers. He is expected back next month.

Mrs. Sarah Clawson, mother of Mrs. H. Dalton, will arrive here from Portland next week to spend the winter with her daughter. Mr. Dalton is connected with the William Warren school.

The voters of Menlo Park were loyal to the local candidates at the election last Tuesday. Frank P. Roach received 199 votes at precinct No. 1, against his opponents 32. At precinct No. 2, Roach secured 207, Lampkin 27. At precinct 1 the vote on the anaprene justices was, Shurtleff 159; Kerrigan 79, Sloane 31; Seawell, 76. The vote at precinct No. 2 was: Shurtleff 194; Kerrigan 107; Seawell 60; Sloane 11.

Tom Fitzgibbons, proprietor of the Menlo Park hotel, was arrested last Monday by federal officers and a large quantity of bootleg liquor found at that place was confiscated. Jim Marquette, who runs a "soft" drink place on Santa Cruz avenue was also arrested Monday and a large quantity of wine found in his place was confiscated.

R. Klump of Menlo Heights is at the California hospital, where he has undergone an operation. He will not leave the institution for some little time.

The Native Daughters are planning for their card party on November 27. Several turkeys have been selected for prizes. This will be a splendid opportunity to secure your Thanksgiving bird.

There is a big demand in Menlo Park for dwellings. The real estate men are besieged with applications but they are unable to secure a single house. Fifty homes could be rented at once were they available.

Robins are making their appearance from the north, the recent storm having driven them in large flocks from the icy region to their winter home, where the luscious red berry will soon be ripe. The little red breast will gorge himself on the toyon and grow fat. He will depart for his summer home in the north next spring. The robin is a non-game bird and cannot be shot by the cruel hunter. He may sing to his heart's content not afraid of molestation from anyone.

The Companions of the Forest, Menlo Circle, entertained the Supreme officers of the San Francisco lodge last Tuesday evening in the local lodge rooms. After the adjournment of the meeting a banquet was served to the guests. Refreshments were also served to the election officers at precincts one and two. The Companions will attend a large party at the Menlo Theatre, Saturday evening, November 11th.

Mr. O'Connell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. O'Connell of this city and has resided here practically all of his life. After finishing high school he was employed in San Francisco and for a time and on the outbreak of the war enlisted and was soon commissioned as a Lieutenant.

The young couple will for the present make their home in the Roussel Apartments at Belmont.

Woodside Chirps

Woodside cast 142 out of its 164 registered votes at Tuesday's election which is not a bad showing when one considers that about twenty votes are from the other side of the mountain and that the roads are very bad after such a rain as we had on Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kelley and family have moved from their place on the Canyada road into the Jeffrey French place. Mr. Kelly is to be employed on the Jackling place so this new residence brings him nearer his work and the children nearer to the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen have moved into Dr. Ross' large house in the "Little Forest."

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Jarvis gave a very enjoyable evening to a number of their friends on Saturday last. After an evening spent in games, an elaborate supper was served. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ross, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Michall, and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Gish.

The sewing class for the girls of the Woodside School had an enthusiastic beginning on Friday. Rooms have been fitted up in the old school house and fourteen girls have entered the class. The rooms have been decorated with school drawings, part of the furnishings have been donated and the boys of the school are anxious to construct what else is required if only they had the tools. The boys have offered to furnish vegetables from their spring gardens if the girls will organize a cooking class.

A very handsome elm tree that stood as a landmark near the corner of the Highway and Albion avenue and on the Henry Jenkins property line was cut down on Wednesday. It was accused of interfering with the electric light wires and of casting too much of a shadow upon the Jenkins household. But its passing is regretted by the neighbors.

Mrs. J. L. Ross Jr., has gone to Burlingame to spend several days with her sister, Mrs. Frank Nash.

SQUIRES A WELL PLEASSED MAN

George D. Squires of this city is one of the most pleased and most highly satisfied men in California. And indeed, he has good cause for being satisfied, for he is the man who inspired the Hon. Friend W. Richardson with the idea that he should be the next governor of California. When Mr. Richardson finally decided to enter the contest, Mr. Squires became his campaign manager for California. Many and many a time during the preliminary contest when things looked black. Mr. Squires had to use all of his persuasive powers to keep his candidate cheerful and happy. He was successful in all of his work and after the nomination was assured he took charge of the work of the general election. There was no stage of the game when Mr. Squires doubted the outcome. He was satisfied that the republicans of the state would stay with their candidate, and they did. Now that he has finished his work, Mr. Squires has returned to his law practice. It has been suggested that he can have any appointive office he wishes. It has also been suggested that he may be the governor's executive secretary. Mr. Squires, however, is content that he did a good job for California, and is letting other people wonder about what he is going to get.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH NOTICE

The President of the United States having designated Sunday, Nov. 12, as Red Cross Sunday, and as it is the second Sunday in November which is annually observed as Sailors' Day, the pastor of St. Peter's church will write both topics in his morning sermon, preaching from the text, "They who go down to the sea in ships." Appropriate hymns will be sung. All welcome.

EXTREME CRUELTY CHARGED IN DIVORCE CASE

In a complaint filed this week by Mrs. Alice Lewis against W. L. Lewis is employed by the Pratt Lowe Company here, extreme cruelty is charged.

Mrs. Lewis alleges that her husband is in the habit of calling her vile names, that he insisted upon her working and turning her earnings over to him and then refused to allow her enough to provide the necessities of life for herself and two children. His threats to kill her finally forced her to seek refuge with friends in Los Angeles, she alleges. She asks that she be awarded the custody of the two children, the community property consisting of money and house hold furniture, and a reasonable sum for maintenance and support. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney H. L. Bradford of San Francisco.

SEQUOIA GIRLS PLAY GOOD GAME

Last Thursday the two girls' basketball teams of the Sequoia played the teams of the San Mateo high school. In the first game, Sequoia's 125 pound team was successful in defeating the team of equal weight of the San Mateo team. The score of the game was Sequoia 15 and San Mateo 10. The game with the unlimited team of the San Mateo high went to San Mateo's credit in spite of fine playing on the part of the local girls. This score was 1 to 7.

Next week the girls expect to play the high school of South San Francisco. The Physical training for girls at Sequoia for the next ten weeks will consist of volley ball, indoor base ball and lectures on hygiene with emphasis on posture.

Pescadero Pebbles

To a great many people it was something of a surprise recently to find that the post office had been moved from its old rather inadequate quarters to the more roomy and convenient location in what was at one time the old Garretson store. The post office is now housed in the building with the new First National Bank of Pescadero, with which institution the postmaster, M. Glanola is connected as Assistant Cashier.

Under the direction of Mr. Reese the painting and papering of the bankbuilding represents a splendid bit of workmanship. It will soon be a distinct pleasure to leave one's money in the bank these days just to get in there providing, of course, for the mere contingency of the money.

Election day found town as busy as a flock of bee-hives, and the amount of excitement that prevailed throughout the day must have recalled to many the stirring times of the old torch-light parades of other days.

The recent storms have been somewhat too much for the hunters. A glimpse of the sun for a few days, they aver, would give 'em a little better chance at the quail, which so far have proved themselves extremely elusive and a bit too swift of wing. On the other hand fairly good bags of duck are being brought in regularly.

Every one in the community feels deeply the shockingly sudden passing of Gladys Blomquist, the nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Blomquist, who live in the upper reaches of the old Pescadero creek country. Word had hardly been given out relative to her illness when the announcement of her death followed hard after.

An enormous slide along the Santa Cruz road near Wadell's Beach marked the advent of Tuesday's south-easter along the coast. The slide necessitates the relaying of passengers and mail on either side of a mile or so of the cave-in.

It is surprising the number of republicans who voted for Wool because they thought that was the way the wind and wine was blowing to blow and flow. While the democrats voted for Richardson, because we believed him to be the best man, have the laugh on them. Some people always want to go with the crowd, but they made a bad guess on the direction of the crowd this time. Wine pulled the wool over their eyes.

Many of his old friends in San Carlos will be glad to learn that Dr. A. Jones is now enjoying a very lucrative as well as highly congenial position as civil engineer in charge of construction with the Sugar Pine railroad, with headquarters at Jim Ball Springs, in Tuolumne county. The work which Mr. Jones is engaged in, is an extension of the Sugar Pine line into what is known as the Stanislaus National Forest, in order to reach the big pine forests in that section. The extension of the Sugar Pine railroad will connect with the Sierra railroad at Ralph station. This is a difficult piece of engineering as Mr. Jones writes "the spurs and branches cross and recross deep canyons and high cliffs, making it necessary to put in some very sharp curves." Jones also writes his friends that that part of California is a great place for big game, that he and his men had already bagged the limit in big deer and were tempted to go beyond the limit of the law as big game was so plentiful in that section. Dr. A. Jones was one of the first of the new comers to build in San Carlos after the Mercantile Trust Co. took the property over from the San Carlos Park Syndicate five years ago. He afterwards sold his bungalow at Cypress and Sycamore to Mr. M. Updyke, the present owner. During his residence here Mr. Jones proved himself to be one of the progressive citizens. Always ready and willing to serve on any of the committees of our Community club, which gave promise of doing something for the advancement of our little city. He had no use for politics in matters of this kind, and was always ready to battle against those who were politically ambitious and who were short on ability to back up their claims for political preferment.
